Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1, 4-6, 8, 12, and 16-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Scheim et al., U.S. Patent # 6,018,011 for the reasons outlined previously.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-4, 7-9, 12-14, and 16-20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Sakamoto et al., U.S. Patent # 5,371,116 for the reasons outlined previously.

Response to Arguments

It is Applicant's contention that Scheim no longer represents a foundation for rejection insofar as the permutations of component (IV) on which the Examiner relied are devoid of oxygen atoms in the residue bridging the silicon atom and the carbonyl moiety. However, claims 1 and 16 still allow "X" to correspond to a nitrogen atom. Further, Applicant is advised that the disclosed advantages of that embodiment for which X is "O" and R is "CH₃" in the compound adhering to formula I, as set out in the final five lines of the claim, have no effect whatsoever on a determination of patentability. Indeed, there is nothing in claim 1 that requires that X correspond to an oxygen atom and R to a methyl group. Moreover, these limitations are inherently satisfied by any composition that teaches compounds satisfying the structural limitations of (I) and (II) as defined by the claim.

As for Applicant assertion that the Sakamoto reference is destroyed by the "modifications" necessary to arrive at the present invention, that the Examiner did not expressly mention one or more components of the composition taught by Sakamoto was not an attempt to modify the teachings of the reference. In fact, no modifications are necessary because the method recited in claim 1 merely discloses a step of "providing" a composition wherein the composition "comprises" certain materials. Likewise, claim 16 is directed to a composition that "comprises" specified materials. Applicant is surely aware that the transitional phrase "comprising" is open-ended and, therefore, allows for the presence of other materials or steps in the case of a method. See, e.g., Genentech, Inc. v. Chiron Corp., 112 F.3d 495, 501, 42 USPQ2d 1608, 1613 (Fed. Cir. 1997) ("Comprising" is a term of art used in claim language which means that the named elements are essential, but other elements may be added and still form a construct within the scope of the claim.); Moleculon Research Corp. v. CBS, Inc., 793 F.2d 1261, 229 USPQ 805 (Fed. Cir. 1986); In re Baxter, 656 F.2d 679, 686, 210 USPQ 795, 803 (CCPA 1981); Ex parte Davis, 80 USPQ 448, 450 (Bd. App. 1948)

("comprising" leaves "the claim open for the inclusion of unspecified ingredients even in major amounts").

The Examiner did not mention those materials that were not essential to outlining the reasons for rejection merely in the name of brevity.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 10 and 15 are allowable.

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
